

Highlights from Saunders students on co-op

What Do You Do?

I did a variety of tasks. I carried out Operational Due Diligence and Vendor Assistance on two major transactions. I helped to analyse the operational implications for a client involved in a buyout. I also had to examine and report on the financial position of companies that our clients were interested in purchasing. I had to analyse and write reports on what I found, as well as offer solutions to potential problems that I foresaw.

Management Major Class of 2015

Co-op Company: KPMG Singapore

Co-op Position: Advisory Intern

Where Do You Do Your Work?

It was in Singapore. The office had a great team spirit and camaraderie. The company had their very own clubhouse where employees could relax during lunch or after work. The clubhouse included their very own bar, for after work drinks. In addition, the company had many sports teams which was a great way to unwind after work as well as stay fit.

What's Great About Your Co-op?

It was an excellent experience. I was able to fully test myself in a professional environment. It was a great learning experience for me both from a professional and personal standpoint. I met a great group of people, who really made me feel welcome and taught me a great deal. I was living in a new city and met and connected with a great number of people.

Why RIT?

I grew up in Dubai, and initially started as a student at RIT Dubai.

Zuhair Siddique

"I hope to be head of an investment head or on my way there. In addition, I hope I am working in a region or country where I have never lived before."
